In Your Garden

THOSE DARN BUGS

By Bev Johnson, Otter Tail County Master Gardener

Now that the soy beans have been harvested, the lady bugs no longer have a home. Yours looks like a good alternative. Even though they don't damage your house, except for staining light walls when you squish them, they can do other kinds of damage. They are reasonably harmless to most people, but not all of them. They like to check to see if you are edible by taking a nip out of you. They can break the skin. This is usually a short lived irritation unless you are allergic to their bites. Some of the symptoms of allergic reactions are runny nose, itchy and drippy eyes, and a runny sinus. They can also cause conjunctivitis, that is itching, tearing, swollen eyelids, and asthma. If you already have a history of allergies, you may even develop a hypersensitivity to the little biters. One good thing about lady bugs is that they don't carry diseases, not that you would care if your eyes are itchy, and your nose, eyes and sinus are running like a faucet.

Most of the cases of allergies doctors see occur in the home and is usually associated with exposure to large numbers of them. However it can occur most anyplace a hyper sensitive person has contact with the beetle.

The best bet for people with allergies and Martha type housekeepers is to keep them outside where they belong. They will crawl through cracks and spaces particularly around windows, doors, roof edges and any other opening they can get though. If they have congregated on an outside wall of your house, especially if it is light colored or on the south, simply wash them off with soapy water. The fats in the water may kill them as it does other soft bodied insects like boxelder bugs. If nothing else the freshly bathed bugs will have to take time to crawl back up the wall. If you know you are allergic, treat the outside walls with insecticide just before harvest. Also invest in a caulking gun and caulk around windows and doors. If they get into the house they will be in the walls, attics and any other void. As they crawl out vacuum them up then chuck the bag out the door. Sucking them up doesn't kill them it just ticks them off.

Lady beetles aren't the only biting bugs that may want to enjoy your house. A Minute Pirate bug is a predator that feeds on small insects like aphids and other insect's eggs. These guys are tiny, only about 1/8th of an inch long. Small enough to overlook. During the fall they are on the wing looking for a nice warm place to spend the winter, like your house. If they encounter a human, they will take a bite to see if they have discovered food. They don't transmit diseases so the bites are just annoying.

If you have hackberry trees you may have noted galls on them. When the insect emerges from the gall, it too can give you a bite to see if you are edible. It is usually just a pin prick and you may not even notice it.

And we thought we were done with bug bites when the mosquitoes died. Sometimes living in the wilds of Minnesota just sucks. But then we fry a fresh caught fish, pick a ripe tomato from the garden or just enjoy our clean fresh air and are glad the rest of the country hasn't found us yet.

Severe Blood Shortage: Red Cross Issues Immediate Call For Blood Donations

The American Red Cross is facing a severe blood shortage and urgently needs blood donors to give now to avoid delays in lifesaving medical care for patients. Volunteer blood drive hosts are also critically needed to prevent the shortage from worsening this winter.

During September and October, the Red Cross collected over 21,000 fewer blood and platelet donations than what hospitals needed. Blood donors of all blood types, especially type O, are urged to make an appointment to donate at RedCrossBlood.org or by calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

Fewer blood drives in September and October coupled with hurricanes Michael and Florence, which caused thousands of blood and platelet donations to go uncollected, were key contributing factors to the current blood shortage.

"This time of year, as many give thanks for family, friends and good health, it's important to remember that patients across the country cannot survive without your generosity," said Cliff Numark, senior vice president, Red Cross Biomedical Services. "From traumas to ongoing cancer treatments, the need for blood doesn't stop for the holidays. People can give back – and help those in need – by making a lifesaving blood or platelet donation now and hosting a blood drive in the weeks to come."

An additional 4,300 blood drives nationally – and about 420 blood drives in this area – are needed in December, January and February to help stop the shortage from continuing throughout winter. Donations often decline during the winter holidays when many groups postpone blood drives while regular donors are busy with holiday activities and travel. Severe winter weather may also cause blood drive cancellations contributing to fewer donations than needed.

How to help

Eligible donors can find a blood donation opportunity and schedule an appointment to donate by using the free Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). Donation appointments and completion of a RapidPass, are encouraged to help speed up the donation process. RapidPass lets donors complete the pre-donation reading and answer the health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, from the convenience of a mobile device or computer, or through the Blood Donor App.

Those interested in hosting a blood drive can learn more and sign up to sponsor a drive this winter, by visiting RedCrossBlood.org/HostADrive.

Who blood donations help

Kylee Durham, 11, had a rare type of vascular tumor in her right jaw bone. When the tumor ruptured in August, the hemorrhage caused Kylee to lose so much blood that she needed two units of blood before an emergency embolization surgery to stop the bleeding. She required additional transfusions during surgery and received a total of eight units of blood, or about the total blood volume of an average adult, over a 12-hour period.

The surgery was successful, and Kylee had a partial resection of her jaw a couple of days after the embolization to remove the tumor. Now a few months post-surgery, Kylee is back at home, enjoying middle school and spending time doing the things she loves. Her mother, Brittany Durham, is grateful for the donors who helped save Kylee's life.

"If it weren't for blood donors, my daughter would not be alive. She nearly lost all of her blood. Blood donors saved her life," said Durham. "My dad has been a blood donor for years, and my whole family now are blood donors in honor of Kylee. I encourage people on a daily basis to go out and donate blood."

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission. LET'S GET REAL

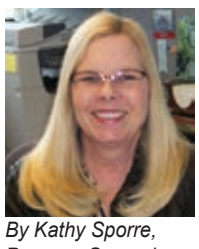
Real stories about the Fergus Falls Senior Citizens Program, Inc.



By Kathy Sporre, Program Supervisor

A Treasure Trove Of People

People in a community come from all walks of life. One area that defines our walk in life is the job we have. There are office/professional jobs that are knowledge intensive (often called white collar jobs), and jobs of the trades or otherwise labor intensive ones (often called blue collar jobs).

The Senior Center is a mosaic of people with vastly different backgrounds – from farmers (due to our rural location) to business owners and beyond. They are all people who have generally moved on from a life that exists less around what they do and more about who they are. Many of them are in a process of discovery about this new path of life they have embarked on called retirement.

Jean and Ed found themselves on this path when they moved from Stillwater to Star Lake in 2000. Then in 2005, they moved into Fergus Falls. "I had a trip planned that year with some girlfriends," Jean said. "Ed suggested we visit the Senior Center hoping he would find something to do when I was gone," she continued.

"When Jean came back, we came to the Senior Center pretty regularly," Ed remarked. "We still didn't know a lot of people in Fergus Falls at that time, and the Senior Center seemed like the place to meet people."

Ed learned to play pinochle and whist and soon convinced Jean to join him. Jean said, "Both were games we hadn't played before. I wasn't so sure about pinochle," she admitted. "I thought it had to be a stupid game where a 10 was higher than a king."

"Then we started playing party bridge which we had played casually in Stillwater," Ed said. "I had never played duplicate bridge, so I bought some books on how to manage the game and donated some boards to get it started," he said. "We made a lot of mistakes in the beginning and now we play duplicate bridge twice a week," he exclaimed. "In fact," he smiled, "it's going so well that some people think that's all we do here."

Of course, that's not the case as Jean pointed out. "I've found the Senior Center has something for everybody," she asserted. "It's better than sitting home alone being bored. I recommend coming for the activities and the meals; especially if you are eating alone," Jean continued. "It's more than just the eating or drinking coffee – it's the companionship and friendships you make," she added.

"The exercise equipment, which we both use, has been a big boost to the organization and its members," said Ed. "It started slowly with a piece or two donated from someone's home, and then through grants we moved up to the commercial equipment we have now." Ed smiled, "Now there's not room for another piece unless we retire one."

As it turned out, both Jean and Ed made wonderful contributions to the organization they first came to as a place to occupy themselves and meet people. "We've always been involved in our community wherever we've lived," Ed commented. Both have served on the board and been involved in committee work, and Ed has helped with bookkeeping and financial statements due to his career background.

The Senior Center certainly is a mosaic of people who have interesting and meaningful stories to tell about their lives and careers. We have blue collar and white collar retirees enjoying all that the Senior Center has to offer. Believe it or not, we have even had a member who was a rocket scientist with NASA. In this great big world we live in that keeps moving ever faster forward, sometimes that's exactly what it takes to get the job done – a rocket scientist!

Our Mission: to enrich the lives and promote the independent lifestyles of senior citizens in the Fergus Falls area.

How To Make Your Favorite Foods Healthier

With a few easy tweaks, meals can be made much more healthy.

After the whirlwind of the holiday season, the season of resolutions takes over. Many people to resolve to live healthier, and they may not have to give up their favorite foods to do so.

Research from the National Institutes of Health suggests American adults between the ages of 18 and 49 gain an average of one to two pounds every year. Grazing and overeating tends to increase when the weather cools down. A 2005 study published in the New England Journal of Medicine found that, in the fall, people tend to consume more calories, total fat and saturated fat. In the spring, people seem to prefer more carbohydrates. In addition, less powerful sunshine in winter coupled with people bundling up translates into less vitamin D being absorbed by the body. Some researchers believe there is a link between vitamin D deficiency and weight gain as well.

To ensure that certain foods do not sabotage healthy eating plans, people can employ some easy modifications and make healthier versions of the foods they like to eat.

- Choose crunchy foods. Those who are prone to snacking can reach for noisy foods. These include crunchy items like apples, carrots and pretzels. Scientists say that when people listen to what they are chewing - called the "crunch effect" - they eat less of that item.
- Tone down the cream. Delicious dishes like fettuccine alfredo typically are made with lots of butter and cream. Replace cream sauces with a healthier base made of low-fat milk thickened with flour. Increase the flavor with favorite spices.
- Fry with care. Use healthy oils like olive or coconut sparingly. Many foods that are traditionally fried also can be lightly coated with cooking spray and baked for a crunchy texture.
- Choose sodium-free seasonings. The USCA recommends limiting sodium to less than 1 teaspoon of salt per day. Try options like fresh herbs or lemon juice to add some sodium-free flavor.
- Increase fiber content. Fiber helps one feel fuller longer and can also be helpful for digestion and heart health. Choose the "brown" varieties of rice, pasta and breads.
- Replace meat with leaner forms of protein. Lean chicken, turkey and pork can replace red meats in many recipes. Some traditional meat dishes, such as burgers, also can be modified using vegetables or seafood. Lean meats dry out quickly, so keep foods moist by watching cooking times.
- Stock up on yogurt. Greek and other varieties of yogurt can replace sour cream and mayonnaise in many dishes.

Resolving to eat healthier can be easy by making some simple swaps when preparing your favorite foods.
